Sky Full of Clouds

Materials:
- Watercolor paper
- Watercolor brush
- Piece of paper towel
- Small wet sponge
- Large puddle of blue watercolor paint
- Container of water
Step 1. Wet the entire piece of paper with water using a large brush or sponge. Be sure the paper is very wet. You can tell it's wet if it looks shiny. While the paper is still very wet, brush the blue watercolor paint all over the paper. The more paint the better.
Step 2. While the paint is still very wet, take a paper towel or sponge and press a small area to soak-up some of the paint. Lift the paper towel and you'll see your first cloud. Continue creating clouds all over your paper to create a sky full of clouds.

Tip: Before you paint in clouds, draw an outdoor scene of trees, plants, animals, people, and buildings using crayons, colored pencils, or oil pastels. Then, wet the paper with water and paint and create your clouds.
